

General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) 2018

Wednesday 7th February 2018, 10am to 4pm

UKLA House, Chess Business Park, Chesham, HP5 1SD.

Data protection law is changing. From 25th May 2018 the new EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) places more stringent legally-binding obligations and responsibilities on those who capture, store, process and manage personalised information that can identify individuals such as customers or end users, as well as distributors, suppliers or even your own employees.

The new regulation applies to 'Data Controllers' and now 'Data Processors' within organisations, and covers automated as well as manual records. Failure to adhere to the new regulation or notify a breach to the Information Commissioner's Office could leave organisations liable to fines of up to Euros 10 million or 2% of their global turnover. UK Government has confirmed its adherence to the new regulation even after the UK has left the European Union.

The seminar will explain what the changes to Data Protection Law are, and how you can ensure your organisation remains compliant with the new regulation. At the end of the course, you will be able to;

- Understand the provisions of the new GDPR.
- Know how to apply the new GDPR in your organisation, department or team.
- Understand the impact of the new GDPR on your customers or end users, distributors, suppliers and employees data.
- Maintain compliance with the new GDPR within your organisation.

Who Should Attend: Individuals who process personalised data within organisations such as those working in customer-facing roles such as sales, sales support, business development, account management, technical sales and marketing, as well as those working in support functions who deal with suppliers, customers or end users, distributors and employees data for example finance, procurement, and HR. Senior Managers responsible for controlling the way personalised data is managed within organisations would also benefit from this course.

Your trainer: Andrew Lloyd Gordon is an experienced trainer who has consulted since 1996 for numerous clients, large and small in various industries. Andrew is a member of Google's Digital Academy and trains on their behalf a variety of blue chip brands including Kraft Heinz, Hilton Hotels, Sage Software and Ford Europe.

Members £199 plus vat. Non-members £299 plus vat.

To book email secretariat@ukla.org.uk by Wednesday 31st January 2018.

The seminar also qualifies for 6 hours of Continuing Professional Development (CPD) under the Registered Lubricant Professional (RLP) scheme. For more details go to <http://www.ukla.org.uk/registered-lubricant-professional-cpd/>
